Introduction
The VA Learning University’s (VALU) mission is to help build a talented and diverse VA workforce, enterprise-wide, supported by senior management and a learning culture, that is better skilled and prepared to serve our veterans.

For over a decade, the National Diversion Internship Program (NDIP) has facilitated internship assignments in government and industry for students enrolled in historically and predominantly black and colleges and universities supporting minority students and has brought the interns together for a range of extra-learning and enrichment opportunities throughout the course of their internship to enhance the internship experiences. Through internship assignments, these students are provided "hands-on" opportunities to apply their classroom knowledge in challenging work experiences and their employers receive the benefit of the new ideas, new energy, expertise and experiences of diverse student learners.
